State's New Constitution To Be On The Ballot Next Fall

By DREW VON BERGEN
United Press International
FRANKFORT, Ky. (UPI) — The state's proposed new constitution, written last year by the Constitution, Revision Assembly, will be placed before the electorate for passage or defeat this November on the strength of a 55-word section of the state Bill of Rights believed the work of Thomas Jefferson.

Assurance of the November ballot inclusion came Tuesday when the state Court of Appeals, in a 6 to 1 decision, upheld a Franklin Circuit Court ruling dismissing an attempt to block the document from reaching the voters.

Only Judge Edward P. Hill dissented.

In allowing the proposed measure to be voted on, the state's highest court dismissed a contention that the exclusive means of changing the constitution was by a constitutional convention.

Opposed By Farmer
This had been the contention of Frankfort attorney William E. Johnson, who represented W. C. Osterwood, a Boone County farmer who filed a taxpayer's suit to block the revised charter.

But the court, reverted to Section 4 of the Kentucky Bill of Rights, purportedly penned by Jefferson as part of the 1792 Constitution.

"All power is inherent in the people, and all free governments are founded on their authority and instituted for their peace, safety, happiness and the protection of property. For they have an inalienable and indefeasible right to alter, reform or abolish their government in such manner as they may deem proper," the section states.

Judge Squire Williams, who wrote the majority opinion, said these words "express the historical experience of the people in securing a government in which they have freedom of action not permitted by the divine right of kings."

See Right Of People
Williams said it was inconceivable to assume the people might be divested of the power to reform their government by the procedures set out in two sections of the present Constitution.

Instead of asking the electorate to call a constitutional convention with elected delegates as noted in current statutes, the state Legislature authorized a Constitution Revision Assembly, with all former governors and a group selected by a special committee.

"In the ultimate sense, the legislature does nothing else and until the people ratify and choose to give the revised constitution life by their own direct action," Williams said. "In this respect, the legislative merely performs the role of messenger or conduit."

Williams commented further on the importance of the state Bill of Rights section.

Class Section's Importance
"We cannot accept the proposition that Section 4 has been preserved throughout all these years as a mere relic, a museum piece without meaning or substance as a principle of free government."

"To the contrary, it seems clear to the majority of this court that in each of our four constitutions, the Bill of Rights has been purposefully set aside as supreme and inviolate because it represents those things that are basic and eternal, all other matters transitory and subject to change."

"I believe that nothing else in the Constitution can be construed as a limitation, restriction, or modification of any of these fundamental rights," Williams said.

In what he called "the loneliness of my dissent," Judge Hill said the only justification for the majority opinion was expediency.

See Revision 'Exclusive'
"I believe there is no reasonable-minded person in this commonwealth who would not agree that the proposed constitution is a better deal."

Grant At MSU Will Train Teachers For Headstart Program

Murray State University has received a $24,200 grant from the federal government to train 200 "Operation Headstart" teachers.

The teachers will be on campus June 6-11. Those participating will receive stipends of $75 a week plus $15 a week for each dependent.

The Headstart teacher, most of whom will come from the Jackson Purchase area, will be encouraged to live in college dormitories during the training period.

Mrs. June Smith, of the Murray State School of Education, will direct the project.

Boys Of Woodcraft Will Go On Trip

The annual special activity for Boys of Woodcraft, the Woodmen of the World will be a two day trip to St. Louis June 15 and 16. Members between the ages of 8 and 16 are eligible. Transportation, ball game tickets and lodging will be furnished by Woodmen of the World Life Insurance Society.

Highlights of the trip include a baseball game between St. Louis and Pittsburgh in the new Busch Memorial Stadium on the night of June 15 and the Animal Show at Forest State Park on June 16. Buses will depart from the Murray bus station at seven a.m. June 15 and return at approximately six p.m. June 16.

Parents or guardians of boys going on the trip are requested to turn in a signed Junior Unit Attendance Certificate to LeRoy Cunningham, Campmaster, at the pavilion in Murray City Park between eleven a.m. and one p.m. June 6.

Gemini Flight Is Postponed For Second Time

By AL ROSSITER JR.
United Press International
CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (UPI) — Last minute technical difficulties today forced postponement once again of the Gemini flight of hard-luck astronaut Thomas Stafford and Eugene Cernan, who sat unbelieving in their capsule.

"I just can't believe it — I just can't believe it," Cernan was quoted as saying.

Stafford said "Aw shucks!"

Their mission had been "scrubbed" May 17 when a target satellite failed to orbit and there was a one-day postponement early this week.

Now, the earliest they could try again was Friday.

The timetable defeated them. They had to blast off by 12:44 p.m. EDT after the 11 a.m. EDT liftoff of the target satellite they were to chase in space. This "window" was vital.

They were scheduled to blast off at 12:30 p.m. EDT. There was only a six-minute margin after that. When guidance system data failed twice to be approved by a computer it forced "holds" in the countdown that had run flawlessly through the night and morning. That did it.

The window was vital because of space mechanics. If there was a delay beyond six minutes from scheduled liftoff time, it meant the astronauts could not catch up to the target, soaring in a 185-mile orbit at some 16,200 miles an hour.

Officials sought to pinpoint the cause of the guidance system problem.

A host of "minor" problems had been solved earlier.

But the target satellite posed a separate problem after liftoff. Officials could not determine whether a protective shroud separated from the docking cone in its tail.

Stafford and Cernan, already frustrated twice before in their efforts to get a Gemini 9 off the ground, were given the sad word they would have to wait another two days.

"We try harder," read a sign they carried to the elevator that took them to their capsule. But it would have to be try, try again on Friday.

The target satellite already in orbit 165 miles up had difficulties of its own. Officials could not tell whether a protective shroud had separated on the 1,700-pound vehicle known as the "Clob." If it failed to separate, Gemini 9 could rendezvous with it, but could not perform a link-up.

The satellite went into orbit between 185 and 186 miles in the heavens — right on the button — traveling at 16,200 miles an hour.

"Good show!" Stafford said. But 24 minutes after it soared off the pad, the satellite nicknamed the "Clob" still left unanswered whether its protective shroud had come off.

A event half-hour before the 11 a.m. EDT launch of a target satellite that would lead them on a chase in space, the pilots were chipper and confident. They had a 98-minute wait in their cramped capsule before taking off after the target.

Cernan, dressed in the bulky suit that will be his protection during a spacewalk, carried the optimistic sign as they arrived in the "white room" 10 stories up on Pad 19.

"This crew's ready to charge," said astronaut office chief Donald K. DeSloven.

Stafford and Cernan waved and Cernan appeared to be chewing gum behind his helmet visor.

Failure of an Atlas-Agena target satellite May 17 left them stranded on the pad and a one-day delay this week set back their schedule. But they were "maver" for the mission," officials reported.

The weather was cloudy and there was some early rain, but it was "go" for the double-barreled launch. Minor technical problems were easily solved.

NASA said a device which would have told the temperature of liquid oxygen in the fuel cell which powers the Gemini capsule was not working and "would not" be used. But this and another minor telemetry difficulty aroused no concern.

Back-up astronaut James A. Lovell Jr. and Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. climbed into the Gemini E as understudies while the space crew slept. They made a final check of instruments in the capsule.

No holds developed in the countdown of either the Gemini or the economy-sized substitute target.

Seen & Heard Around MURRAY

Anti-government demonstrators turned President Johnson in effigy in Glasgow. If we were ever turned out to be. This was the way of a can of gasoline and a match is strictly for the birds as far as we are concerned.

While we are at it we must say that the Buddhists in South Viet Nam have the best press agents in the world. One of them cut off a finger the other day in a small town in the jungles and derailed the TV camera was not there to record the event for history. The actual cutting was not filmed but we did see this fellow writing a letter to President Johnson in his own blood.

A man with a wife and two children, making $10,000 per year, pays 30 per cent of his income in taxes today.

Social Security began in 1936. One per cent was paid by employers and this was matched by the employee on the first $3,000 of income. Today Social Security takes 4.2 per cent from employees, 4.2 per cent from employers on the first $6,000 of income. This is nearly ten times the original tax.

And the end is not in sight. Medicare is going to shoot it even higher and now President Johnson wants to take care of all children six and under on a similar deal.

Looks as though everyone has rights except the man who is footing the bill.

An Irishman was forced to testify one time about the delivery of illegal whiskey to one, Jake Smith. He denied the knowledge.

"Wasn't it labeled whiskey?" demanded the prosecutor.

"It said rye whiskey on one end of the barrel and Jake Smith on the other," was the reply. "How was I to know which was in the barrel?"

J. Edgar Hoover in his monthly message in the FBI Law Enforcement Bulletin says the use of the term "police brutality" is misused and law enforcement is being downgraded because of it.

"Police brutality" conjures up visions of hulking men in uniform clubbing and beating innocent people. Rarely, however, does the term fit the circumstances to which it is applied. It is used in wild accounts of enforcement officers' lifting limp demonstrators who block busy thoroughfares, in references to oral commands by policemen who disperse potential trouble-makers, in depicting efforts by officers to halt violations of the law, and in describing any number of other sworn duties performed by policemen.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:

We hear quite a lot of discussion today in regard to the purpose of our being on this planet. Why did God place man on this planet? We find from the study of the Bible that God created man and placed him on this earth, that man might live in complete obedience to His will, by so living they would be His children and He would be their Father.

How do we know this? The Bible tells us that although man disobeyed God, His plan did not fail. For God prepared a human body and sent His son to live in this fleshly body (Heb. 10:5). As Jesus said:
"He came only to do the will of His Father, John 4:34, there by doing a special work for His Father so that God's purpose would not fail." He not only taught us His Father's will. He also showed how man could live in obedience to His Father's will, for we are told in First Peter 2:21 that Jesus is our example.

Now, He has promised that one day, He will return and gather unto Himself both the dead and the living who have accepted His sacrificial offering and have lived in accordance with His Father's will as he did; that He will carry them to the "new earth," First Peter 3:13;
and when they are there, then God's purpose for man will be fulfilled for they will be His children and He their Father, a gloriously happy family throughout eternity.

Now kind friends, there is only one way that we can be a part of this family. That is to read and study God's will as it is revealed in His word and then obey it.

How can anyone afford to miss being a part of God's original purpose.

Marichal Improves Hitting To Work On 30 Game Year

By JEFF MEYERS

UPI Sports Writer

Because Juan Marichal's hitting took longer to develop than his pitching, the major leagues have had to wait 32 years for another 30-game winner.

The high-kicking San Francisco right-hander, who ran his record to 10-0 Tuesday night by whipping Cincinnati 5-3, is 21 days ahead of the 1934 pace set by Dizzy Dean, the last left-hander to win 30 games.

Marichal's two-run double in the fifth inning was as significant to him as his 19th victory. After winning 25 games in 1963, Marichal wasn't impressed and criticized his teammates' lack of fire-power.

"I lose a lot of games because of weak hitting," Marichal said then. "If the team hits well, why can't I win 30 or more games?"

Seventh in Hitting

Although leading the National League by 2½ games, the Giants rank seventh in hitting. So Marichal has worked hard to improve his own hitting and the result is a sparkling .325 average this season.

"I'm a real hitter this year and you better believe it," Marichal said after handing the Reds their fourth straight setback. The Dominican Republic fire-baller has given up on four runs in the last 31 innings and boasts an amazing 9.80 earned run average.

Elsewhere in the senior circuit, Los Angeles topped Atlanta 6-2. St. Louis blanked Houston 2-0. Philadelphia bested New York 6-4 and Chicago shaded Pittsburgh 2-1.

AL Action

In the American League, Baltimore walloped Minnesota 14-5. Boston nipped Chicago 1-0. Kansas City stopped Detroit 7-1. Washington upended New York 5-1 and it took Cleveland 17 innings to beat California 7-5.

Leo Cardenas was the only Cincinnati player to solve Marichal's high-speed delivery, connecting for a solo homer in the seventh to end the righty's scoreless innings string at 30 and homering again in the ninth following a double by Tommy Harper.

The Giants scored three runs in the fifth stanza on a two-bagger by Cap Peterson, a walk and Marichal's two-run double. A single by Tito Fuentes scored Marichal. A seventh-inning homer by Jim Ray Hart and a ninth-inning single by Don Landrum plated Willie Mays.

Left-hander Claude Osteen hit his first homer in a Dodger uniform and Lou Johnson and Al Pereira drove in two runs apiece. Osteen, traded to Los Angeles by Washington in 1964, raised his record to 6-5 but needed relief help from Paul Regan in the seventh after developing a blister on his pitching hand. Maury Wills stole his 21st and 22nd bases for the Dodgers.

Flood Singles

Curt Flood's single scored Lou Brock and Bob Tolan during a three-run St. Louis fifth. Inning Jerry Buchek led off the fifth with a walk and scored after back-to-back singles by Brock and Tolan. Ray Washburn, 23, gave up three hits in 5 2-3 innings and reliever Hal Woodeshick limited the Astros to two safeties the rest of the way.

Bill White scored three runs and drove in a pair with a single and his seventh homer of the campaign. The Phillies scored twice in both the first and third innings to tie the Mets 4-4. White broke the deadlock with his homer in the fifth and scored Cookie Rojas with a ninth-inning single. Dick Stuart and Johnny Lewis homered for New York.

Ernie Broglio hurled a four-hitter and scored during Chicago's two-run fifth inning. Broglio, who struck out seven and walked seven, doubled off Bob Veale to start the fifth, took third on a wild pitch and scored on Joe Amalfitano's sacrifice fly. Adolfo Phillips tallied the other run on a single by Ron Santo.

Cleveland And Angels Go All The Way In 5 Hour Marathon

By CURT BLOCK

UPI Sports Writer

It looked for awhile as if it might never end. In fact, it didn't until the following month.

The marathon merry-go-round of battles on a treadmill between the dugouts and home plate was conducted by the American League leading Cleveland Indians and the California Angels Tuesday night and part of Wednesday morning.

Cleveland came out on top when the last out was made which just two minutes short of five hours from the beginning. The Indians batted around in the top of the 17th inning, scoring three runs after a 13-inning drought, to down the persistent Angels 7-5.

There were several noteworthy performances. Such as Sonny Siebert, who was the Cleveland pitcher when the game started May 31 and went on to strike out 10 Angels in 6 2-3 innings, or Steve Hargen who replaced him and went on to hurl 10 innings of one-run ball and gain his first victory of the year when the game ended June 1.

In more conventional American League action, Washington beat New York 5-1; Baltimore bombed Minnesota 14-5; Boston nipped Chicago 1-0; and Kansas City clubbed Detroit 7-1.

In the National League, Juan Marichal won his 19th straight as the Giants whipped Cincinnati 5-3; Los Angeles trimmed Atlanta 6-2; St. Louis shut out Houston 3-0; Chicago clipped Pittsburgh 2-1; and Philadelphia flattened New York 6-4.

The Indians jumped to a 4-0 lead in the third inning with a rally highlighted by Chico Salas' three-run homer. But that was it for 13 innings. Howie Reed blanked them for three frames, Lew Burdette one and Bob Lee seven, including a string of 18 men in a row at one stage. Dean Chance came on in the 16th and was charged with the setback. Pedro Gonzalez snapped a 4-4 tie in the 12th with a home run loaded single. A wild pitch by Chance allowed another to score and a walk to Jim Landis with the bases full forced in the last run.

The game was the longest in the junior circuit this season surpassing the 16-inning contest the Indians dropped to Baltimore May 6. It equalled the 17-inning marathon last year when the Angels held May 13.

Washington left-hander Pete Richert took over the American League strikeout lead at 82 as he fanned eight Yankees for his fifth consecutive victory and first lifetime win over New York.

Richert, who tied an American League mark earlier this month he struck out seven batters in a row, lowered his earned run average to 2.24 and got all the runs he needed, when battery mate Paul Cusano doubled home three runs in the fourth inning. Roy White's sixth inning homer spoiled Richert's bid for a shutout.

Dave Johnson, Andy Echavarren and Luis Aparicio combined for eight hits and eight runs batted in as the Orioles trounced the Twins. Johnson's bases cleared, triple highlighted a six-run first inning which also included a two-run double by Echavarren. Aparicio's eighth inning homer was just icing for Eddie Watt, who allowed three hits in 8 2-3 innings of relief.

Tony Conigliaro's second-inning homer was the only run as Dick Stigman won his first game for the Red Sox. The run was the first off White Sox pitching in 31 innings. Stigman went all the way scattering seven hits and fanning eight.

The Athletics got 13 hits including Larry Stahl's fourth homer to down the Tigers. Fred Talbot was the beneficiary. Yet Kansas City's biggest offensive output of the season.

Looks Like Dad's in the Doghouse

DEAR ABBY: I have a 170 hot fudge sundae or a malted problem, and it's not my husband. (He's over 200!) It's a lovable St. Bernard who crept into my affections when she was a mere pup of 66 pounds. Joe "surprised" me with her because HE'S always wanted a St. Bernard. There are small children in our neighborhood and I must keep the dog chained constantly or, in the spirit of playfulness, she could knock a child down and break both his legs!

We live in Minnesota and it's too cold to keep her out of doors all winter, so she sleeps on our service porch. If we don't keep all the bathroom doors closed, she drinks out of the "johns." We are growing more attached to her every day, but it's like keeping a horse in the house! She has a fine pedigree, and Joe paid a good price for her, but I'm ready to GIVE her away. Abby, do you want a St. Bernard?

DEAR ABBY: I am almost 17 and my boy friend is 18. He got me a pair of shoes for my birthday and my daddy made me give them back because he said it wasn't proper for a girl to accept a present like shoes from a fellow. I have been going with this boy going on five months, and I can't see why it's wrong to accept a pair of shoes from him.

DEAR ABBY: I would like to have a nice plump girl to call my own. I am not some kind of nut, either. I am a normal, fairly intelligent, college-educated man, 32 years of age. Every girl I know either mixes a powder with water and calls it "hunch," or else she skips hunch entirely and eats a dry cracker that looks like a dog biscuit.

Every girl I know either mixes a powder with water and calls it "hunch," or else she skips hunch entirely and eats a dry cracker that looks like a dog biscuit.

An Expression of Appreciation

I wish to thank all of my wonderful friends and relatives who sent flowers, and letters and cards of encouragement during my recent illness.

I would also like to express my gratitude to Dr. Lowry and his staff, to the wonderful nurses, and the entire staff of the Murray-Calloway County Hospital, including the dietitians.

I can truthfully say that each one and all, went far beyond the call of duty in my behalf.

I thank the Great Physician for His watchful care and for His guiding of the hand of the surgeon.

It is times like these that make us realize what our friends mean to us. I appreciate each one of you.

—Hiram Tucker

wealth who doubts that it was the intention of the authors of the constitution to provide an exclusive plan for revision," he said.

Hill called the vital Section 4 of the Bill of Rights, "a cocky boast of a sovereign people reveling in the enjoyment of new-found freedom and sovereignty."

He said a practical application of the section "is almost impossible."

Judge James B. Miliken, a member of the original committee which selected delegates of the CRA, in a separate but concurring opinion with the majority, said Hill's dissent "ignores history and dangerously tethers the present generation in the exercise of its greatest freedom — the freedom to alter or reform its basic law anytime it deems it proper."

use of force by enforcement officers, Mr. Hoover says, but they are not as prevalent as the public has been led to believe.

"A general and accepted principle of the law has been that an officer may use such force as is necessary to make lawful arrests, protect his life, and perform other specific duties. Frequently, however, the choice is not his to make; he HAS to use force or be maimed or killed and have the rights of all the people trampled by those who have no respect for law or due process. Even then, his best efforts often are not enough, as evidenced by the appalling number of officers assaulted and killed each year."

Mr. Hoover goes on to say that policemen have the same basic rights as others and should not be penalized by the indiscriminate use of the term "police brutality."

An annual income of $3,000 is generally accepted as poverty level in the U. S. today. About 44 per cent of Americans over 65 have incomes below that level, according to the Kentucky Commission on Aging.

The Blue Grass State Sheep Association has announced another project as a part of its promotional program for Kentucky's lamb and sheep industry. The latest event is "Make It Yourself With Wool Contest" for Kentucky youth.

Mrs. William Balden, Route 2, Danville, is State chairman for the contest. Purpose of the event is to encourage girls to sew and wear wool garments. Nationally, the contest is sponsored by the American Wool Council and is approved by the National Association of Secondary School Principals.

According to Mrs. Balden, the Kentucky contest is divided into two sections, with both being determined by the age of the contestant. Girls in the junior division, ages 14-16, may make dresses, coats, or two-piece suits. Those in the senior division, which includes girls between the ages of 17-21, may make dresses, coats, or suits.

The contest is open now, with the deadline for entering being October 15. District contests will be held on November 5, with the State contest set for November 12. Winners in the State contest will compete in the Southern State Council contest on November 19. Final judging will be in January during the National Fashion Show in Las Vegas, Nevada.

Rules of the contest require that the garments be made of 100 per cent wool or fibers accepted in wool, such as mohair, camel, cashmere, alpaca, llama, vicuna and guanaco. No more than five per cent of other fibers will be allowed. Wool must be loomed, knitted, or felted in America. No hand-knit garments will be accepted. Garments must be entirely constructed by the contestant.

The entries will be judged on workmanship and fit, plus the coordination of fashion, fabric, color and line with each other and the contestant. Each contestant will be required to model her garment at the contest.
